

A black and white artistic photograph featuring a large, billowing plume of smoke or steam rising from a dark, textured surface. The smoke is rendered in various shades of gray, with some areas appearing bright white where it is most concentrated. The overall composition is vertical, with the smoke filling most of the frame. In the center of the image, the word "CONTAGIOUS" is written in a glowing, stylized, serif font. The letters are white with a soft, ethereal glow that blends into the surrounding smoke. The background is a deep, dark gray, providing a stark contrast to the lighter smoke and the glowing text.
